About Trendrating:

Trendrating is the leader in trend capture models, analytics, and technology, serving more than 300 institutions worldwide. Our innovative and proven analytics enable investors to assess and rate the quality of price trends with a high degree of consistency and objectivity. The ability to identify and capture trends, participating in bull markets while avoiding bear phases, is a key driver of long-term investment outperformance. Trendrating simplifies this process through a clear and intuitive rating system, where A and B ratings identify bullish trends and C and D ratings signal bearish trends. This systematic and unbiased methodology captures medium-term price trends that can have a significant impact on annual portfolio returns. By providing an additional layer of market intelligence, Trendrating helps investors enhance decision-making, maximize return potential, and strengthen risk control. Easy to integrate into existing investment processes, Trendrating's validated rating framework enables the evaluation of the direction and quality of medium- to long-term trends across stocks, ETFs, indices, sectors, and countries.
