

TRENDRATING - Technology for an advanced discovery process, unveiling factual insights with a measurable impact on performance.

How can investors trust selection parameters and ideas without proven evidence of their actual value?

Working on assumptions and unproven ideas can be a recipe for underperformance.

The knowledge of proven facts about what works and what is useless is the foundation of successful investment strategies.

Investors deserve and want better market intelligence and tools with a verifiable impact on investment performance and risk management.

Leading-edge technology and AI-driven analytics can enable a pragmatic fact-finding process to test, compare, and discover the best parameters and combinations using any fundamental, quantitative, and technical parameter, with a sound historical validation.

Using the Trendrating platform, it is possible to run a performance ranking of several fundamental parameters combined and discover those producing more alpha.

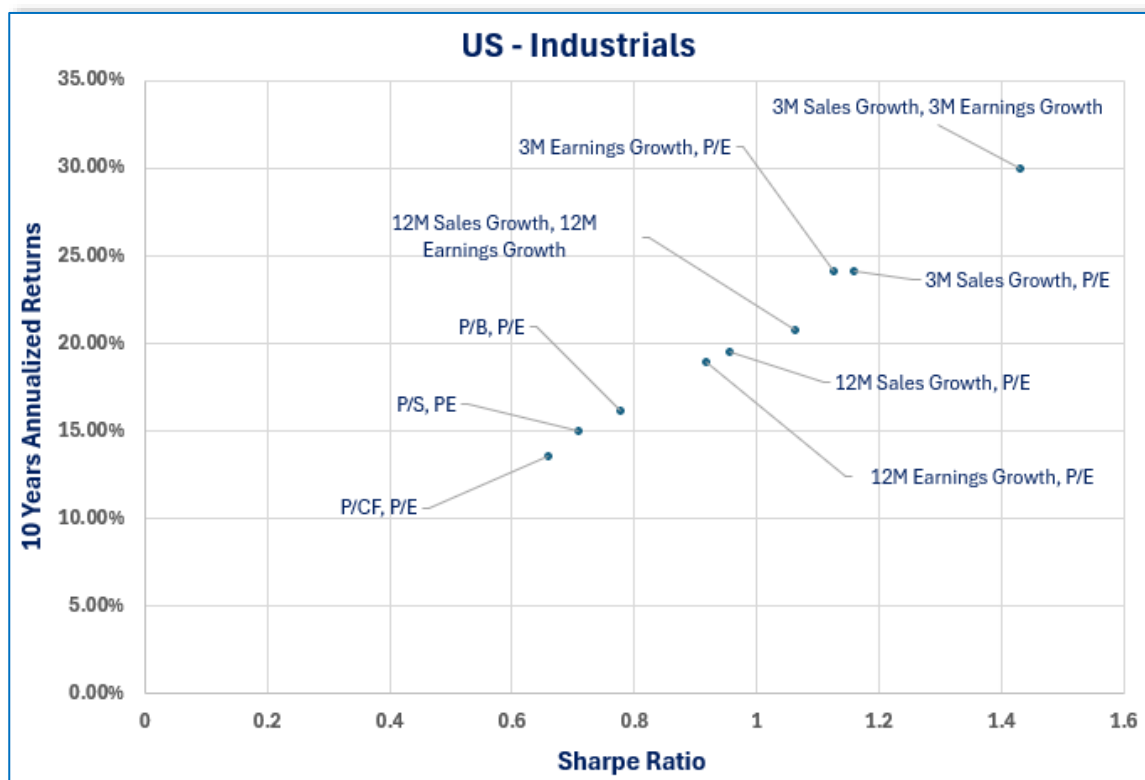

The below analysis covers the yearly return over the last 10 years for a few sample US sectors.

We enable investors to discover what works and what does not, with technology supporting enlightening fact-finding and rigorous validation via a multi-year test.

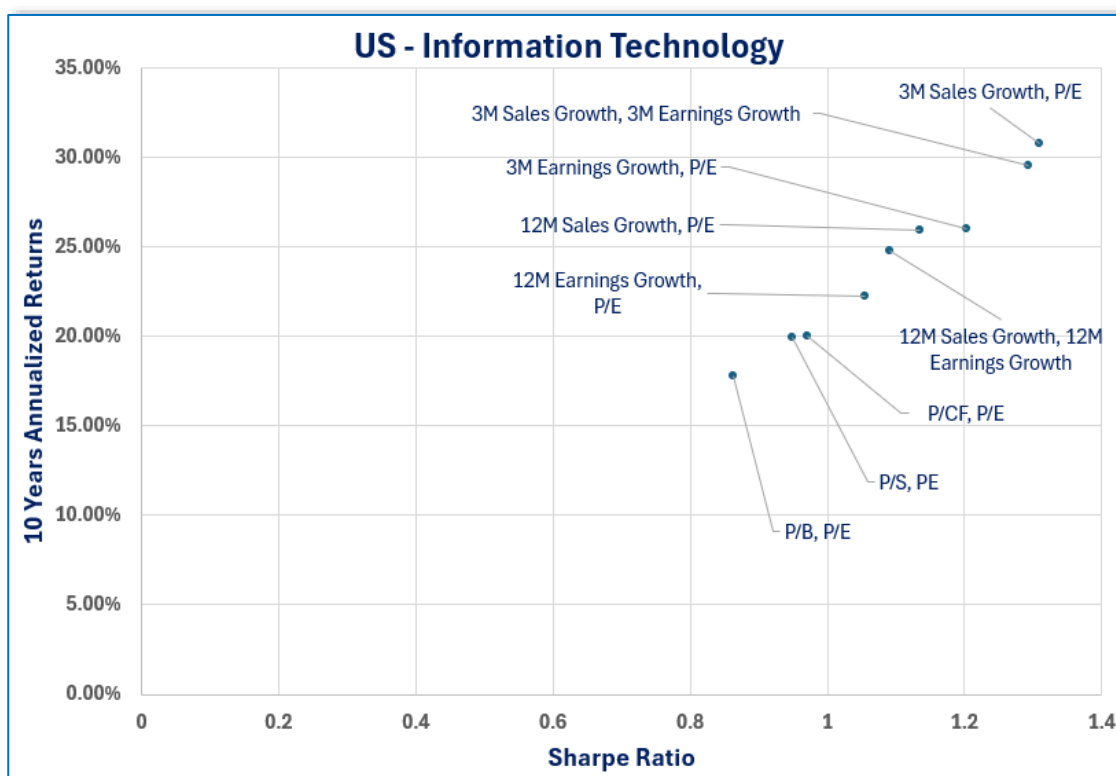

The impact of this enabled discovery technique on the investment performance is fully measurable and trackable in the Trendrating system.

The difference in yearly performance is substantial.
