

Fact-Finding In Search of Alpha

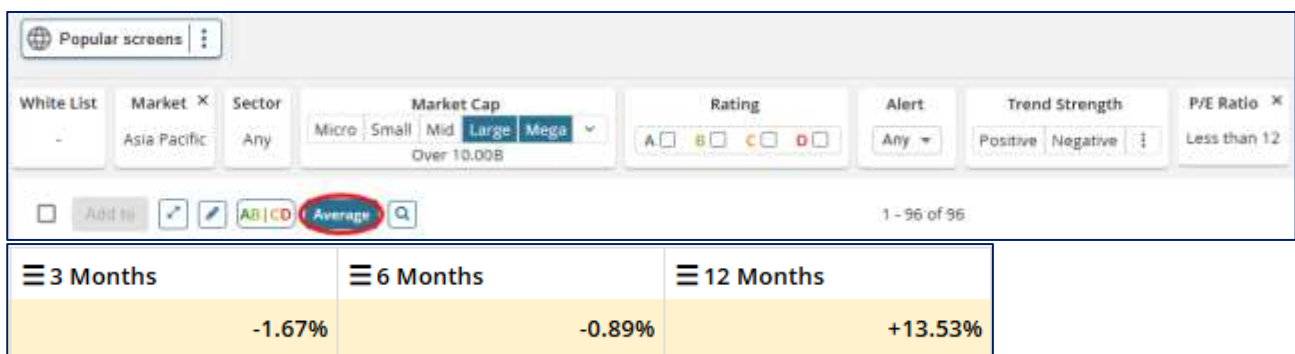

Picking the right parameters and rules for selecting the stocks that can maximize the performance of active strategies is a critical task, better supported by fact-finding rather than assumptions. Investors need and deserve to know the actual facts, unveiling which parameters, analytics and rules can produce real alpha. This is the mission of our unique Alpha Discovering Technology. Trendrating technology empowers an advanced discovery process, delivering factual insights with a measurable impact on performance, documented with full transparency by rigorous historical tests.

We deliver proven evidence. Here we first measure the return of different fundamental parameters and then calculate the impact of adding a filter on negative trends using our Trend Strength model.
